1	Yes, great networking/business opportunities Many resources too, to stay informed.	Sep 24, 2009 8:43 PM
2	yes, met a lot of great women, learned leadership skills and have become more active/knowledgable in politics	Sep 24, 2009 8:47 PM
3	Networking and programs	Sep 24, 2009 8:52 PM
4	Yes and no - I enjoy the lunch programs (when I can make it) presented at the local level. The mass e-mails from the national level definitely clog my inbox and are usually on topics in which I am not interested in.	Sep 24, 2009 8:53 PM
5	I do feel that networking and meeting women is important and BPW has helped me do these 2 things. I am; however, unsure if it is worth the $90 annual fee for me to attend luncheons and socials that you can ultimately attend for free! I feel I pay my dues just to be able to say I am a member. If my employer didn't pay for it, I would just continue attending socials and luncheons and never become a member.	Sep 24, 2009 9:08 PM
6	Yes, my membership has encouraged me to go to more functions and get involved, as a result I have met more people.	Sep 24, 2009 9:09 PM
7	Yes, many years of networking, contacts, support for myself and other women from the organization,	Sep 24, 2009 9:25 PM
8	Yes, to stay connected to professional women in the area.	Sep 24, 2009 9:30 PM
9	I have just joined so it is hard to tell. I have enjoyed the few meetings I have been to, and the people I have met.	Sep 24, 2009 10:02 PM
10	if non-members are welcome to come to the luncheons and pay the same amount as members, then i feel my membership is not as worthwhile...why pay membership fees when i get the same benefits as non-members...i understand that members only at the social...perhaps a discount for members at the luncheon?	Sep 24, 2009 10:11 PM
11	I love meeting women at our lunches, the topics we hear about, and working on committees. I think we need to work a little harder on defining our relationship to women across the state and country.	Sep 24, 2009 10:19 PM
12	I'm not sure yet. I just joined a few months ago.	Sep 24, 2009 10:30 PM
13	yes...love the networking and commeraderie.	Sep 24, 2009 10:32 PM
14	Not sure I've gotten much out of my membership, but still like the concept of the organization. Seems like the main activity is the lunches, but those are additional money. The networking programs are a good idea, but hard to do one more evening thing.	Sep 24, 2009 10:37 PM
15	Unsure.	Sep 24, 2009 10:53 PM
16	Yes- I like the networking	Sep 24, 2009 10:53 PM
